LOÍZA HERITAGE TOUR & BOMBA CLASS

LOÍZA

A few minutes outside of San Juan and just past Isla Verde is the town of Loíza, best known for its traditional vejigante masks and the beachside community of Piñones, where you can get some of the best frituras in the region.

But what makes Loíza distinct from any other part of Puerto Rico is the rich African heritage that permeates the town's identity. Loíza was settled in the 16th century by members of the Yoruba tribe who were brought to the island as slaves. In modern times, most of the music, dance, culinary tradition and art produced in Loíza is Afro-Puerto Rican and the town has the largest Black population on the Island.

Activities and restaurants are subject to change.
